High School News.

Items of Interest From Best School In Kentucky.

The Literary and Debating Society met last Friday in one of the most interesting meetings of its existence.

After several recitations, among which those of Misses Hattie Rice and Mabel Williams and Messrs. Knight Hanly and Walter Clements were received with great applause. The event of the evening, the debate, was listened to by the members of the society. The subject: "Resolved that ambition has been more productive of good than of evil." was treated in a masterly style by our incipient barristers.

The arguments on the affirmative were opened by Hon. Will Waters, who spoke with great force and pathos, frequently being forced to discontinue his speech by his incipient barristers.

He was followed by Rev. Stanley Dawson who proceeded to show the wickedness of the world in general and of the opposing side in particular, and to whom were his scathing remarks that it was feared for a time that his opponents would sink through the floor or be cut down by the destroying angel before the debate could be brought to an end.

Just in time to save his side from the impending doom predestined for them in Rev. Dawson's remarks, Mr. Ollie Barber appeared and disputed the fact that his side were the only sinners and declared that the negative were deeper in the mire than the affirmative were in the mud.

Dr. Shultz next brought forth the arguments for the negative and by striking examples from history proceeded to show that all great things in history had been done because of the ambition of some hero. He pointed to himself as a striking example of the ambitious youth, but on being questioned by the affirmative as to what young lady was the object of his ambition he declined to answer. We had awaited his response with eagerness and were greatly chagrined when he refused.

Some of the uninitiated supposed that perhaps the next procedure was in answer to the question asked Dr. Shultz, when there stepped forth to the speaker's stand an Auburn haired lassie who seemed prepared to answer the question. It was found, however, that she was only to answer the arguments of Dr. Shultz and his co-laborers. Mademoiselle Tucker delivered her speech with force and when she reached that pathetic passage about Alexander, the Great's death on St. Helena it was impossible to find a dry eye in the whole assembly.

Miss Annie McElroy was the next to champion the side of ambition and with the timely aid of Misses Nellie Noe and Louise Medley helped materially.

The Society will next meet on Friday October 5. A debate will then be held on the subject: "Resolved that heredity has more influence in shaping our lives and characters than education."

There will be also a number of recitations. The complete program will be given in our next issue.

Messrs. Ed Willett and Bryant Miller have entered school.

SUPPOSED CORPSE

At Glasgow Moved and Later the Woman
Was Revived.

Gov. Beckham Proposes a Foot
Race to Settle Senatorial Contest.

IMPORTANT KENTUCKY NEWS.

Glasgow, Ky.—Persons living in the western part of Glasgow are excited over the strange condition of Mrs. George Burgess, who, with her husband, moved here from Etiole, this county, five months ago. Since locating here Mrs. Burgess became afflicted with a malady said to be consumption, and for several days had been growing worse. Yesterday it was given out that she would not live through the day. She sank gradually until 11 o'clock last night, when she apparently died. Several women were called in and the body was laid out, preparatory to dressing it for burial. While they were waiting for the burial the corpse surprised all present by moving. An investigation revealed that the woman was breathing. From the time she was thought to have died, half an hour, until she moved, there was no perceptible sign of life. Respiration and heart action had ceased, and those who closed her eyes and handled the body declared she was cold and rigid. After those who had been called in by her surprise restoratives were applied, and in a short time she had rallied sufficiently to talk. Mrs. Burgess is still alive, though her condition is very critical and her death expected at any time. Those who helped revive her said: "It takes me a long time to die. Don't you think so?"

Beckham's Footrace.

Louisville, Ky.—There might have been a unique day in Kentucky's history if Gov. Beckham and Senator McCreary had really meant what they said when one submitted proposition for a foot race to settle the senatorial question and the other quickly took it up. The governor and the senator met at the state fair and both agreed to it for a large portion of the time. They were in the judges' stand waiting for the calling of a race when the governor suddenly said: "Senator, we might as well settle this question now as any other time. Suppose we go out on the track and have a foot race for the nomination for senator." Quick as a flash Senator McCreary came back: "That is perfectly agreeable to me," he said, "but I would suggest that the distance be a mile, that we may better test the running qualities of each." Among those in the stand was Gen. John B. Castleman, and for a moment every one accepted the challenge seriously. But the proposed foot race passed into the 1906 campaign joke book.

The Resort of Crooks.

London, Ky.—During a general fight J. H. Thomas, from Mud Lick, N. C., and a man named Thompson, from Flat Lick, Knox county, were shot near the K. D. bridge in this county. Thomas is shot through the stomach and is dying. Thompson is shot through the arm, and is seriously wounded. But Lanham, of Lily, this county, is accused of shooting both men, and has made his escape. The place where the trouble occurred is known as "Hell's Half-Acre," and is a woodland just outside the corporate limits of Corbin and across Lynn Camp River on the Laurel side. Here many noted crooks congregate, and several men have been killed there within the last few years. The resort is so situated that the city authorities of Corbin can not interfere with the offenders, and they have little trouble in escaping the officers of the police when by crossing the county line when they were pursued. Deputy Sheriff W. N. Scoville, of this city, went to the scene of the fight tonight and picked several men and women under arrest, and will bring them to the London jail to-night.

An Investigation.

Frankfort, Ky.—The state board of control ordered an investigation into the sudden death of Fred Ketterer, of Ashland, at the Lexington insane asylum. President Haly, of the board, issued the following statement: "The state board of control, in special session, has determined to make an investigation of the cause and circumstances attending the death of Fred Ketterer, accused of murder, who died at the Lexington insane asylum on September 22, 1906. Judge J. R. Morton, of Lexington, has been employed by the board to formulate the report to be used in making the investigation. The board has instructed Judge Morton that its purpose and desire is that the investigation shall be fair and impartial, and that the facts relative to the death of Ketterer be clearly established, with out regard to consequences. The result of the investigation, whatever it may be, is at the service of the Fayette county grand jury, which meets in October."

Indicted For Murder.

Middleboro, Ky.—The grand jury in session in Lee county, Virginia, returned indictments against Kentucky officers who captured Frank Ball at Rose Hill August 9. The men are charged with the murder of John Lee. Lee was killed in the fight between Ball and the officers. Those indicted are Rice W. Johnson, sheriff of Bell county; R. L. Givens, Gordon Givens, Newton J. Wilburn, John Glynn, of Middleboro, and James Rollins, Ike Vanbiber and John Wilson, of Pineville, deputy sheriffs. It is said that Gov. Swanson will ask Gov. Beckham for requisition of these men. The members of the party who assisted the sheriff and his posse have been indicted as accessories to the murder of Lee. This party was composed principally of business men of Middleboro and Pineville.

Fuedists Fight.

Sergeant, Ky.—In a second battle between the Mullins and Fleming factions on the Letcher-Pike border James Anderson, aged 35 years, of the Mullins, was shot and killed, and Hiram Mullins, the leader, was probably fatally wounded. The shooting was done by the Fleming faction, it is said. John Fleming, leader of his side, was shot in a leg. Forty shots were fired in the fight. It is said that the losses of the Mullins have been so great that they have decided to disband.

Something About Jewelry.

Many American women possess the value of a king's ransom locked within their jewel cases. The possession of such priceless articles is a constant source of worry unless the proper precautions are taken to insure their safe keeping, says the New York Journal. To enjoy any peace of mind of valuable jewelry must:

First—Send it to the jeweler every six months.
Second—Keep the most valuable things in the bank.
Third—Have a routine for removing and putting away jewels.
Fourth—Have a distinct receptacle for each ornament, and keep the empty space tight at once it is missing.
Fifth—Insure all valuables against theft.

Sixth—If a loss is discovered and an advertisement printed over a sufficient reward.
It is not only thieves one has to guard against for the protection of his jewels, but the valuables themselves require constant attention. Large and heavy stones must be looked at frequently by a jeweler or the setting becomes loosened and the stone falls out and is lost.

Turquoise must never be allowed to touch soap or grease, though occasionally it improves them to lie for an hour or so in clear, clean, cold water. Pearls need wearing, and to improve the condition of their skin nothing is better than to place them in a tumbler of sea water and put the tumbler in the sun. People suffering from certain nervous must never wear pearls. They have been known when set in a ring to perish down to their settings. Taking certain drugs must lay their pearls aside for the time or they will discolor.

When arriving at a hotel the best thing to do is to give all your money and valuables at once into the keeping of the manager. If jewels are properly cared for they should be thoroughly examined by an expert every six months to make sure that the setting, the pins and the fastenings are in good order.

It is a dangerous place to pack valuables in a small hand bag unless that bag is fastened to the wrist or waist, for nothing is easier than to forget a little bag when hurrying to catch a train.

When removing a wrap it is advisable to take notice that brooches are not unclipped. Valuable jewels are often unfurnished by the contact of an outer garment.

Up to the Mayor.

Frankfort, Ky.—The court of appeals decided that the statute permits the police judge of the fourth-class cities to appoint a clerk, and if the city council passes an ordinance fixing the salary of the clerk the mayor may issue the warrant to pay the clerk's salary.

MOB AT ATLANTA

12 Negroes and 2 White
Men Lose Their Lives.

Troops Are Stationed in the City
But no Further Trouble is Apprehended.

Atlanta, Ga., Sept. 24.—Unawed by the presence of the state troops, over 1,000 men strong, who are patrolling the principal streets of the city, some of the rowdy elements, still thirsting for negro blood, tried to reorganize the mob that successfully lynched 11 negroes Saturday.

The rioters managed to gather only a few scattered crowds, one of which quickly dispatched another negro in the afternoon. This man, like those killed previously, was apparently innocent of crime.

Two negroes had been arrested on suspicion of being concerned in the assault on Mrs. Arnold. The prisoners were taken to the woman's house, but she seemed unable to positively identify either of them as her assailant. She thought, however, that one of them, who called himself Jack Murray, was the guilty man. She refused to make any charge against Henry Moore, his companion.

Took the Wrong Man.

The officers started to jail with two negroes, but on the way Jack Murray, who was suspected by Mrs. Arnold, escaped. The officers continued on their way, and on Marietta street some one raised the cry that the officers had Mrs. Arnold's assailant.

Almost instantly a crowd surrounded the officers, took the negro and killed him with bullets. With his dying breath he asserted his innocence. The tragedy was witnessed by many people, among them some children who were playing on the street.

Gov. Terrell, having placed the city practically under martial law, there was no general recrudescence during the Sabbath of the negro hunting by white mobs, which resulted in the death of 12 negroes and two white men and the wounding more or less seriously of fully 100 negroes and half as many whites.

It was 4 o'clock in the morning before a semblance of order was restored in the city. At 2 o'clock Gov. Terrell had sent out the state troops to the city and placed the situation in charge of Col. Clifford Anderson. As soon as Col. Anderson could get in touch with his subordinates he distributed squads over the city, placing them at strategic points, and in a short while the situation was greatly improved.

Subdued By Rain.
A heavy rain which began falling at 3 o'clock and continued for nearly two hours was probably more effective in subduing the mob and sending its members to cover than even the presence of the state troops.

The southern mob, as a rule, when they get the state troops to rely on for the local soldiery. The mob members believe that in their attacks on negroes they have the silent sympathy of the local troops, and the view of the mob is not far wrong. The presence of good soldiers scattered over Atlanta in squads, ranging from 12 to 50, according to the importance of the location, gave the city a military air that it has worn on no Sabbath since General William Sherman was at its gates away back in the sixties.

A disturbance was caused in the morning when a negro, standing on Marietta street, near the government building, with a rifle. In five minutes the negro was seen by a crowd of white men, who seized the gun and used it to club the negro so that he was sent to the hospital. Fifty yards away was grouped a patrol of 20 state guardsmen.

A black face was a rarity on the streets during the day. Ordinarily one sees about as many negroes as white men, but the lesson had its effect on the negroes and they remained in their homes.

A BATTLE WITH SNAKE

In Which An Old Lady

A Valuable Horse Killed.—Other Important News From Long Run.

We know a certain man who is one of the most regular church goers we know. He is always on hand. Others may get tired and fall out, or the weather may get too bad, or business interfere, but our friend just keeps going to church. His very life is a re-lic to us who make so many excuses for not doing our duty along that line. We have tried to find the secret of his faithfulness, and have concluded that he goes because he loves to. One of three motives may prompt us to go to church: 1st, one may go to church from a sense of fear, as a slave fears his master; 2nd, from a sense of duty as a child might obey its parents; 3rd, from a sense of love, a motive which prompts the earnest Christian to obey his Lord, which is the very highest motive that can prompt obedience and the only one that is well pleasing to the Lord. If we have given our all to Him and love burns brightly upon the main altar of our heart, then we will gladly and cheerfully obey our Lord, not by fits and starts, but at all times and under all circumstances, and the many excuses that one so often hears, will be swept away as men of straw by the pure, boundless stream of God's love.

A great battle took place in our garden one day last week. It was of short duration, but very fierce while it lasted. The attacking party was an old lady, seventy-six years old; the enemy was a large chicken (or cabbage) snake five feet long. It was found among the cabbage, and was the largest one I have ever seen. The weapon used was a common weeding hoe, which proved very effective. Mother is an old time woman and could not stand for a snake as long as a fishing pole to crawl around in her garden, and now she is looking for its mate.

They are the hotbeds of disease, and because less attention is given them, more evil can be traced directly to them than to any other organs of the body.

Where there is the least indication of trouble or you are feeling out of sorts, Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin should be taken at once.

It is the best preparation for the stomach and bowels.

Pain from a Burn Promptly Relieved by Chamberlain's Pain Balm.

Mr. James N. Nichols, a merchant and postmaster at Vernon, Conn., makes the following statement: "A little child of Michael Strauss was recently in great pain from a burn on the hand, and as cold applications only increased the inflammation, Mr. Strauss came to me for something to stop the little one's pain. From the many liniments I carry in stock, I advised him to use Chamberlain's Pain Balm, and the first application drew out the inflammation and gave immediate relief. I have used this liniment myself and recommend it very often for cuts, burns, strains, and lame back, and have never known it to disappoint. For sale by every reliable dealer in the Blue Grass.

Killed By the Cars.

Marion Falcon: Mr. George O'Bryan, age 24 years, was killed by the South bound passenger train Saturday night between New Hope and Gettysburg.

Shortly before train time he borrowed a lantern from his brother, Mr. Louis O'Bryan, at New Hope and started down the railroad towards his home alone and it is not known how he happened to get caught by the train.

The first stop the train made that night was at Loreto, and from there the engineer telephoned to the section foreman at New Hope to go down the track and make an investigation, because he had either run over a man or a loose rail.

The search that followed revealed the remains of the young man cut almost beyond recognition his head being severed from the body and both legs cut off. The deceased was a son of the late Jerome O'Bryan of that section and was well and favorably known there where he had scores of friends who deplore his untimely death.

"Hoss-Sense"

Up-to-Date Farming.

It is a great advantage in a trade to have something that the other people can not do without. This is exactly the position of the farmers, but in the past they have not taken advantage of their position.

Socialism is unattainable idealism. Equity in business is attainable, and business will be disturbed. Hasten the Age of Equity in business through the A. S. of E.

The A. S. of E. is getting very strong in the Burley district of Kentucky, with no tendency to retrograde. It will be remembered this district has tried for several years to get results on their crops by other plans but they were always found wanting. They find the plan of the A. S. of E. to meet all requirements.

There are many things the farmers need from congress and legislatures. But we recognize that they will get few of them until they are organized. When organized, either party will heed them.

A problem for the advocates of the gospel trains: If a crop of wheat of 770,000,000 bushels sells for less than a crop of 692,000,000 bushels, how large must the crop be to be the most profitable to farmers?

Come now and think of it; we've been raising crops many, many years and they were all consumed. Then how does it come that some farm papers advise quick sales or may not be able to sell at all; or why do some farmers get scared and dump their wheat at less than it's worth? The dear public would eat as much bread if wheat were held at $1.00.

HON. BEN JONSON, OF HARTSTOWN,

FOR APPELLATE JUDGE,
HON. J. P. HOPSON, OF ELIZABETHTOWN,
HARDIN COUNTY.
CIRCUIT COURT CLERK,
ROBERT NOE
GOV. BECKHAM, IT'S UP TO YOU.

The Democrats of Washington county are watching Louisville with much interest. Gov. Beckham put the lid on, and the people applauded him. But the lid came off! Gov. Beckham says he will put it on again, and that's what the people of this county are interested in. Every day the question is asked by many of our countymen: "Will Beckham put the lid on in Louisville?" The Governor says he has the authority to do this. If he has the authority, certainly he has the power. The State militia is at his command; he is the Commander-in-Chief. And it's up to you, Gov. Beckham! If you put the Louisville lid on in the next week or two—if you put it on good and tight—Washington county will give you a nice majority. If you do not put the Louisville lid on the people will feel that you are insincere—that you have been making a grandstand play. They will believe that you have "made a deal," as the Louisville Herald of yesterday charges, with the whisky element for Louisville's vote, and Washington county will give from 500 to 1,000 majority against you.

EATING CROW—big, black crows—will be in order after November 6.

Both Louisville and Lexington held great Fairs last week. And that proves that Kentucky is big enough to do big things in different sections all at the same time. Mammoth pumpkins are plentiful in Kentucky! Bet-cher life! And we may have a dozen State Fairs next year.

An Illinois woman wants a divorce because her husband, through mistake, planted pumpkin seed instead of watermelon seed. We contend that she has grounds for a divorce, and it ought to be granted.

Very little is being said by Washington county Democrats about the State primary, which indicates that Washington county Democrats care very little about the State primary.

The Democrats are going to make a nomination in the 11th district. That's a very cheeky thing to do.

"LOVE," contends the poet, "is the greatest thing in the world."

Much is being said through the press and from the pulpit about divorce, and many and varied suggestions are being offered as to how the sin may be removed far from us, but, notwithstanding this, and otherwise advice, the mills of justice continue to grind out "legal separations," and Sweet Marie goes her way rejoicing and Bill his'n. The TROUBLE! that's what the preachers are trying to locate! In most cases—of course there are some exceptions—the "situation" can be briefly sized up this way: A dampfoot boy borrows 100 of his pa's plunks and marries a little sap-headed girl with paint on her cheeks. Presto! change! and that 100 plunks has vanished. Then the rains come, and the floods descend, and the paint is washed off! Trouble in the land! Side meat comes hard, and Johnnie gets weary. She looks like "a rag, a bone, and hank o' hair," and he looks like a pair of patched pants, a sun-burnt gristle and a pewee-dime. The honey-moon turns green and looks sour, and the evening stars blink black spots over the world; romance is prosier than a column of figures in a last year's almanac, and the goo-goo eyes have gone blind. Thus Johnnie discovers that the article ain't just what he flowed it was, and Sweet Marie feels that she's been bunced. OLD TROUBLE brings his bulk-o'-black and makes a cloud. The sun goes a-way off, and a cyclone races through the soul of each. She cries for her ma, and he wants to join the U. S. Army and become a hero.

And a DIVORCE! That's the greatest thing in the world!

Say as many good things about your candidate as you want to, but don't say too many bad things about the other fellow's candidate.

Some people concluded that a State primary would "eliminate" the h— from politics, but the boys are in it neck deep, and it's as hot as usual.

A STATEMENT.

Having been requested to state my position, should the Republicans nominate for Circuit Clerk at Williamsburg next Saturday, I desire to say that The Sun will support Mr. Noe, the Democratic nominee. The editor of The Sun is Chairman of the Democratic County Committee, and will use all honorable means to elect the party nominee.

J. S. OSBOURN, S. W. C.

A Mother's Love.

Harrodsburg Democrat: Mrs. Wm. W. Thaw has offered her magnificent Pittsburg home, Lindhurst, for sale, and will devote all her time and attention to caring for her erring son, Harry, who is under indictment for the shooting of Stanford White.

If he is acquitted, she is determined never again to let him be separated from her influence. If he is adjudged insane her abode will be just outside the walls and she will do everything possible for his comfort and reclamation. If he goes to the penitentiary, she will keep as near to him as she can. If he goes to the electric chair—well, perhaps, then all that makes the loving mother's life worth living will perish with him.

It is no extraordinary case. It is but one example of the mighty force which binds mankind together in common kinship and keeps the spark of human sympathy aglow in the heart.

The mother-love—there is nothing like it this side of heaven.

It will bear all things, suffer all things, forgive all things, and through it all smile up to God with unshaken hope.

The walls of prison or asylum cannot shut it out. The most solemn verdicts of the highest earthly courts cannot overrule it. Popular scorn of its object cannot make it ashamed. Ingratitude, degradation, crime of any sort, cannot dismay it or weaken it! All the sins and evil passions of the world cannot taint or mar or corrupt it.

Beginning before birth and lasting beyond death, it stretches from infinity to infinity, blessing life as sunshine blesses the earth.

The world, which accounts itself very wise, will sacrifice itself of its peace or comfort or patience for the man who has proven false to his manhood and has fallen under the burden of his follies and crime.

But the mother, wise with a love that is but divine, turns from all others to this one, takes up the bleeding, broken one in her arms and sacrifices her own life to him.

Words, money, all things else, are comparatively easy to give away to the deserving. But when a woman makes a gift of her daily life, of all her affections, her friends, all her happiness, all her wealth, peace, comfort, to one who has been faithless in every duty to her, and has ever given her naught but negligence and cares—then may men and women begin to measure the purity and force of unselfish sacrifice, such as is found nowhere else in human nature than in mother-love.

And the Thaw case is not at all exceptional. It but conspicuously typifies what is in the hearts of countless millions of mothers, the world over.

CALLED CONVENTION.—The Republican County Committee, at a meeting held in Springfield Monday, called a mass convention to be held at Williamsburg next Saturday to take some action in regard to a nomination for Circuit Court Clerk. Mr. Robert Noe, it will be remembered, was recently nominated by the Democrats. The election is not a regular election for Circuit Clerk, but it is made necessary by the death of Circuit Clerk F. M. Campbell, and three years of his unexpired term is to be filled out. Mr. Noe was appointed by Judge Thurman to serve until an election could be held, at which time a candidate is to be elected to serve from January, 1907 to January, 1910—three years. There is not, perhaps, in Kentucky a more efficient clerk than Bob Noe. He has spent his life at work of this nature, and he knows his duties well.

A Postponement.

The Kansas City Star says: Because Emmet F. McElroy, a real estate dealer who lives at Fifth street and Highland avenue, is to be married next Tuesday, the Park board yesterday postponed for one month the consideration of plans for a Cliff drive connection in North Terrace park. The property owners interested in the improvement, which calls for a new parkway and a boulevard, had been notified to appear yesterday, but some of them were absent. A delay of one week was suggested.

"But Mr. McElroy, who is very much interested, wants to be here when the matter is considered," said the spokesman. "Next Monday he will be busy getting ready for his wedding. Can't you postpone this for, say, one month?" "Any other interested property owner going to get married?" asked A. J. Dean, looking around the room. No one responded. The delay was ordered.

POLITICAL

Speaker Joseph G. Cannon, in an address at Lewistown, Mo., said: "I have no prejudice against the Federation of Labor. My sympathies are with it in all efforts and struggles to improve the material condition and secure a larger share of the profits of production for the wage earners. I do not, however, believe in proscription in politics. I am opposed to Mr. Gompers' political methods of blacklisting men who vote as their consciences and judgment and the welfare of their constituents dictate."

William Jennings Bryan made personal appeal to the Democrats of Illinois to drum Roger C. Sullivan out of the national committee. In a carefully prepared statement, the Nebraska brought pandemonium to the Jefferson club banquet at Chicago by announcing that he took his indorsement by the Peoria convention as far from a compliment, that he rejected Sullivan as a political associate and that it is up to the party to "sweep out those who traffic in politics."

William Jennings Bryan returned to his Lincoln home, and the "home folks" welcomed him with every evidence of approval and satisfaction. The Davidson majority over Lenroot for the nomination for governor of Wisconsin will be at least 45,000. The vote on the Democratic candidates indicates Aylward and Bieski will lead the ticket.

John M. Nelson, Republican, was elected to congress in the Second Wisconsin district for the unexpired term of Henry C. Adams, deceased. James C. McLaughlin, of Muskogee, defeated Congressman Rowell, P. Bishop, of Ludington, for congressman from the Ninth Michigan district.

Congressman Washington Gardner was re-nominated at the Third Michigan congressional district Republican primaries.

T. H. B. Jones was nominated for congress by the Democrats of the "outh Ohio congressional district. The Democrats of the Third Ohio congressional district nominated E. J. Jones for congress.

Not only was Gov. John A. Johnson re-nominated for the office which he is now holding on the Democratic ticket at the Minnesota Democratic convention, but he was also spoken of as the logical running mate for Jennings Bryan on the national ticket in 1908.

At a meeting of social democratic and social revolutionary university students at St. Petersburg it was decided not to oppose the reopening of the universities, which is scheduled for October 14, thereby furnishing a strong possibility that the paralysis of the educational life of the country which has lasted for two school years may soon be ended.

MISCELLANEOUS

Paul O. Stensland, fugitive president of the Milwaukee Avenue State bank, is under arrest at Tangier, Morocco. He is said to be making preparations to fight removal from a country that has no extradition treaty with the United States.

It is said at the state department there probably will be no difficulty in fetching Stensland away from Morocco on any merchant vessel, providing the ship does not touch at a French port.

A dispatch was received at the state department from Mr. Gummere, American minister to Morocco, conveying the information that Paul O. Stensland, the president of the Milwaukee Avenue State bank of Chicago, was turned over to Managing Editor Keeler of the Chicago Tribune, and Assistant State's Attorney, Olsen, of Illinois, who apprehended the fugitive banker at Tangier.

State Senator Edgar E. Brackett, of Saratoga, announced that he is a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor of New York.

The annual meeting of the National League of Women Voters closed at Wheeling with the election of officers. Pittsburg gets the next convention, winning out in a pretty contest with Atlantic City.

A fire of incendiary origin destroyed an entire block in the village of Leesburg, O. The loss is estimated at $75,000.

In three battles the Cuban rebels were uniformly victorious. The fatalities on the government side were severe.

Two earthquake shocks are reported from Hilo, the island of Hawaii, but it is stated that no damage was done. After one of the shocks hundreds of dead fish were thrown upon the beaches. Apparently they had been scalded to death by a submarine eruption.

A Fort Wayne & Wabash Valley train, carrying 100 passengers, crashed into the standing car, and the "Limited" coming down the grade at a very high speed, crashed into the standing car. Eighteen persons were injured, three of whom seriously.

SECRET OF SCOTTY'S WEALTH.
Money of Long Ago Dates May Mean a Robber Cache Discovery.

Tonopah.—The secret of the wealth of "Scotty," the Death valley miner, has been discovered. He has found an old cache of robbers who held up the transcontinental stage in the early days. Dozens of Wells-Fargo treasure notes that were dragged from the coaches were never heard of again until now. A party of easterners were traveling in the Death valley region in an automobile recently when they met a prospector.

"See Scotty?" he was asked. He explained, that "Scotty" was somewhere ahead of him, because he had stopped in the shade of his mine to rest, while Scotty pushed on. "He showed me some high grade ore, and he's going out to realize on it. He finds out I'm broke, pulls out a lot of gold eagles, and he stakes me to 200," said the prospector.

In the light of the lamps he held out some gold eagles. The date was 1840 on each one, with a mint mark of "1840" there was no maver, but a 1840 in Delagana, Ga., coined money for a time.

"They have had detectives after Scotty," said the prospector. "The ore samples he carries are a blind. He gets to a town, dumps the ore in his bags, and turns up with legal money. He's got a horse coach cache, and he's sick enough to keep it, too."

HOW TO KILL THE MOSQUITOES

Coal Oil Placed in Plow Slots Will Do It.

Washington.—Dr. W. T. Poole, of Columbus, Ga., who is in the city on business, is making an inspection of the various public places of the city, and is much pleased with the way those he has visited are conducted. In a conversation with a reporter, he said that he had been struck by the fact he believed that many of the mosquitoes which come to life in the capital are hatched in the plow slots of the city of the car tracks. In these slots, after rains, there are many spots where the water stands for days, and in Dr. Poole's estimation, these are ideal places for the breeding of the little pest.

He believes that if the slots had kerosene placed in them after the rains the mosquito supply would be materially decreased.

According to the tests that have been made, Dr. Poole states that the mosquito will come from a pool of water that has been standing for from six to seven days.

He believes that in the effort to make Washington the most beautiful city in the world attention should be directed to the plow slots, where mosquitoes come to life, and that some means be found to cut off part of the supply of the little buzzers that serve to make life so tiresome sometimes.

THROUGH REBEL CAMP

A March Was Threatened By Gen. Avalos and His Men.

Havana, Sept. 24.—Despite the armistice which is now in effect, a clash between government troops and guerrilla forces was threatened. Gen. Avalos, with 400 cavalry and 300 infantry, arrived at Guanajay at noon, having come by train from Pinar del Rio to Artemisa, prepared to proceed to Camp Columbia, near Havana. This meant passing through the rebel camp. Gen. Guerra sent a message to Gen. Avalos that this might lead to an encounter, and that he would not be responsible for the outcome. Gen. Avalos declared his intention to continue the march, but Gen. Rodriguez, by direction of Secretary Taft, ordered him to take his force to Mariel, which will be done.
